BIG THINGS FROM GC

A winning volleyball team, students with high achievement, a beautiful campus, close relationships between faculty/staff and students — a lot of Big

Things do come in Small Packages at Greensboro College. Every year, the opportunities that are available for the students and alumni grows. More and more people are now realizing that GC stands for Greensboro College — NOT UNCG. The smallness of our school allows the professors to give individual help to those students who need it. Everybody is given an equal chance to succeed. The students are now the ones who decide where all the student activity funds should be spent. Because much of the power has been shifted to the students, Greensboro College has many different opportunities for students to become leaders. Our athletic department has also expanded a great deal. We now have a girl's soccer team as well as a guy's lacrosse team. The girl's volleyball team made it to the national finals in California this year, and the guy's soccer team had another very successful year.

Everywhere you turn, you see success. Greensboro College is definatly proving to everyone that BIG THINGS DO COME IN SMALL PACKAGES!

Polly shows everyone her going away present.

— Jeff Brown — "The lady's psychic! I could be anywhere on campus and somehow she always knew how to find me!"

— Dean Tiffany McKillip — "Polly Bowman served Greensboro College and all the students who passed through its doors over the past 25 years with heart, spirit, compassion, love, and genuine goodwill. She gave her total self to her work which made her countless contributions unique. Through Polly's words and actions, she demonstrated endless support to Greensboro College's people, programs, and services. Her goal was to help make Greensboro College the very best that it could be for the students. Polly will truly be missed by all of us! I am fortunate to have worked with her over the past 3 years. I will always have a deep affection and appreciation for her and her many contributions."

In Dedication . . .

In appreciation for 25 years of service to the entire Greensboro College Community, and especially its students, we would like to say "thank you" for all of your dedicated and committed work. Over the last quarter of a century, you have been the backbone of the Student Affairs Office. Your work involved everything from scheduling facilities, coordinating residence hall operations, to taking care of countless Deans of Student Development. Polly, there are few staff who know Greensboro College better than you. Whenever former students inquire about Greensboro College, you are one of the first people they ask about! It is with great pride that we recognize all that you have contributed to Greensboro College! We love you!

Thank you Polly!

The second annual Club Carnival was held on front campus. This event was a great success. At the beginning of each year the organizations on campus like to welcome back returning students and greet new GC students. This event introduces the students to the variety of clubs which are available. The individual clubs set up tables or booths to help people become aware of some programs that they sponsor and the purpose of their group. Yearbooks were also given out at this time. One of the highlights of the afternoon was the Dunking of the Deans Booth, fast becoming a tradition in itself. GET HIP also sponsored a Volunteer Fair on September 21. Forty community agencies came to front campus to inform students on the extent of volunteer opportunities the Greensboro area offers. This event helped students and clubs find valuable information on community service ideas. We were also privileged to have one of NC's senatorial candidates, Harvey Gant, make an appearance at this event.

The First Battle of the Halls

Who Is The Best? East, West, or Greensboro

A great day of fun.

Another autumn event that occurred on campus was the Battle of the Halls. Sponsored by East Hall, this event took place on October 28. At 2:00, the battle began with the participants involved in a string'em up. As the day progressed there were competitions in events such as tug-of-war, barf-a-thon, great fuzzy's dash, and relays like the wheelbarrow race and dizzy izzzy. At the end of the competition, a banner was presented to the winning team. East Hall dominated the battle and victoriously carried the banner back to their building. The banner is now hanging in the East Hall lobby challenging the other halls to another battle next year.

First day for Freshmen . . .

Taking time off from summer to attend orientation.

Various weekends during the summer, confused and nervous freshman flocked to Greensboro College — not knowing what to expect: “Will people like me?” “Am I too fat?” “Will I fit in?” All of these questions and more were asked by the arriving freshman. But once they were here, many of their fears were put to rest. These freshman got a headstart on meeting people. They could leave the security of home knowing that they knew “at least” one person at school.

When the students arrived, they found there was a weekend of activities planned for them. The students got to meet different faculty members. This academic overview gave freshman a chance to see what all the different areas of academics were about. Other activities included Co-curricular advising, a dance, a pep-rally, and a freshman simulation. For those who showed leadership qualities, they were invited on a retreat to improve those very abilities. This also gave them a chance to get to know each other before the flock of Upperclassman came.

The Homecoming Queen and Court

A Major Event on Campus

What is one of the most talked about Homecoming events at Greensboro College? The answer: the crowning of the Homecoming Queen, and the presentation of the Court and Representatives, of course! The crowned Queen of the 1990-1991 school year was Laura Brown. The Homecoming Court consisted of Alice Bates and Liz Bowen. The Junior Representatives were Amy Merrit and Shani Porter. The Sophomore Representatives were Candy Caudle and Georgianna Penn. The Freshmen Representatives were Anika Daniels and Sherry Whitaker.

BONFIRE!!! Homecoming spirit is burning inside the Hornets as they stand around the flame.

Here we see the Greensboro soccer team (lovingly called the Hornets) in action. Great game, guys! (But better luck next year). All kidding aside, the Hornets are a fantastic team.

Here we have James Kilcoyne, Andrew Nealy, and "the Tiger" leading the Greensboro College Homecoming Parade. Most of the clubs and organizations at GC are represented in the parade either in banner or golf cart form. Let the show begin and let the spirits fly. GO HORNETS!

What a great addition, the Greensboro College Steppers . . . A.K.A . . . The Obsession Dancers.

Homecoming 1990!

Ahhhh . . . Homecoming

What does Homecoming mean at Greensboro College? Is it merely the final home soccer game of the season? No! It's much, much more. It's dances, bonfires, parades, pageants, cheerleaders, and bands. Homecoming is excitement and festivity. Homecoming at GC means school and class spirit. Homecoming is one of the busiest times on Greensboro College's campus. There are people zipping to and fro all weekend enjoying the many events.

On the weekend of October 19th, Greensboro College started its Homecoming festivities with a pep rally and bonfire followed by an all-night dance in the gym. The big day started bright and early with the spirit raising Homecoming Parade. The GET HIP club sponsored homeless children who they escorted to the activities of the day. Unfortunately, the Hornets did not win the soccer game, but the halftime activities were very memorable. The "show" featured the crowning of the Homecoming Queen, Court, and Representatives. The night life of the weekend cannot be looked over. The glamor of the Homecoming Dance sparks the curiosity of every GC student; besides, everybody loves an excuse to dress up and show off. At GC, we realize that we can't have Homecoming weekend all of the time, so we make the most of it when we can. This year marks the fiftieth anniversary of Homecoming at our college. It is a strong tradition that grows every year.

SCF

SCF: Sun, Circus, and Fun!

Student Christian Fellowship is a student organization on campus, who is advised by Phillip Cates. This year he has involved the club in community projects and taken them on a beach advance, to name a few of his accomplishments.

SCF sponsored a Circus in the middle of November for the Greensboro College community. The Royal Lichtenstein, a non-profit organization, performed "death defying" stunts, had wild animal acts, and kept the audience "in stiches" throughout the performance. There was a large turnout, especially of young children who wore smiles, excitement, and amazement on their faces. Even a few adults were stunned at the feats.

Also, SCF sponsored a beach advance. There was swimming, singing, dancing, scripture lessons, and fresh seafood. It was definately an enjoyable time for fellowship and fun. One can clearly see that SCF is a fun and exciting club devoted to helping others.

Students enjoy attempting to shag on the river boat while on the SCF beach advance.

Food . . .

Food, the social event of college students. This year has brought about many changes in our dining experiences. The cafeteria staff has taken a greater interest in the students' opinions of food and services by providing more well-liked foods. ARA has also been gracious in donating food for many of our campus activities. Also, students are now able to use their ID's to eat lunch and dinner in the STU during certain hours. Many students were happy about the opportunity to eat while enjoying various activities in the STU. However, there are also complaints about the limited menu selection and the quality of the food that is provided.

GC Students Know How To Have Fun!

Fun — a good time. We all know this to be the definition of fun, but what is considered as fun and where does one go to find it? To learn the answer to this question, just ask any Greensboro College student. Greensboro is a happening city and there is always something going on. Take for instance, playing pool in the Stu, going to Dadio's, building a haunted house, or just goofing around with the guys.

Many G.C. students enjoy hanging around the Stu. playing pool. Greensboro College has a lot of "pool sharks" who are always willing to take on an amateur. This is a great opportunity for students to interact and perfect their skills of the game.

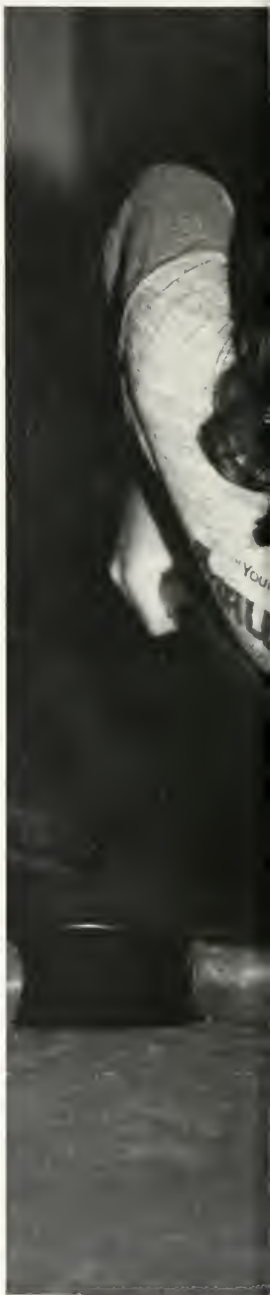

Wednesdays are Dadio's night. Dadio's is a happening place where college students can go and just hang out. The music is great and the interaction between colleges is super. Many G.C. students spend a lot of their free Wednesday night's at Dadio's.

Just goofing around with the guys is another type of activity G.C. students do to have fun. There are individual games of football, basketball, soccer, and frisbee. Anytime after classes are over you can walk around the halls of the different Dorms and find students eating Dominoe's pizza or a sub from New York Pizza. Some students even venture out to eat at such places as Rock-Cola Cafe, Darrell's, Bennigan's or maybe Casa Gilardo's. Some students like to have a quiet night and just rent movies and eat popcorn in front of the t.v.

So if you are looking for fun, whether it be dancing, or just goofing off ask a G.C. student. Because G.C. students definately know how to have fun.

Cindy Brooke, Audi Coble, and Kristi Newkirk recap fond memories as they flip through the pages of Echo.

Lots of GC students hang out in the STU to play pool. Here Caroline Niblock concentrates before making her shot during a tough game of pool.

Many students of Greensboro College enjoy participating in intramural sports such as football and basketball.

Several students were asked what they do for fun:

— Julie Belchee — "I have fun by associating with my friends."

— Kristen Coulter — "I go to sporting events and spend time with my friends."

— Wendy Kazi — "I play pool and spend time with my friends."

— John Rogers — "I go walking."

— Evelyn Teague — "I do it all."

— John Travis — "I go swinging and walking."

— Jack Yongue — "I play football and soccer."

Roommates: Friends?

Most upperclassmen can remember at least one roommate nightmare. Whether this be a roommate who flipped out and tried to do bodily harm to them or it be a roommate that snored to loud at night when you were trying to sleep. Whenever you live with someone, they are bound to get on your nerves every once in awhile. And, unfortunately, sometimes people are placed with other people who are not compatible. When you are having roommate problems, nothing seems to go right. When you are in your room trying to study, it is hard to concentrate because of the tension between you and your roommate. Often times a persons grades may start to drop due to roommate problems. This is not to say that no roommates never get along. Most roommates do get along and know how to have a goodtime with each other. Many people who are older and out of college still keep in touch with their old roommates.

A Haunted Halloween

G.C.'s Nightmare on College Place

All was quiet in the halls of G.C., when all of a sudden a sexy chick named "Teresa" walked by. At a second glance, I noticed something strange — that "Teresa" was my friend, Terry Woodard. I knew something was going on, so I looked outside to see if anything weird was happening there. And just as I expected — There was a full moon! So, I decided to stay calm as I made my way to the cafeteria, but as I pushed open the double doors I found the roughest housewife around — disguised as Monique Partee. And as if that were not enough, once I made it into the cafeteria I saw some of the oddest and scariest creatures around. I saw a green crayon with legs, a lady with a spider-webbed face, and a couple of transvestites doing the "monster mash"! I thought I better have a drink. Just as I picked up my cup of "bug juice", the table said, "Excuse me, Miss! How would you like it if everyone picked up things off of you?" I almost fainted when I realized Shani Porter had been turned into a table. I ran into more creatures throughout the night, but it slowly drew to an end. I realized it must of been Halloween!

Getting Their Act Together!

Several comedians and musicians had the opportunity to "get their act together" in Greensboro College's 1990-91 Performance Series. This was the first year the Performance Series was offered on a season ticket basis. Performers such as Bertice Berry, known as the Doctor of Comedy, and Saffire — The Uppity Blues Women — came to campus in the fall as a part of this series.

Of course, campus favorites such as Robin Greenstein and Carl Rosen made their appearances to the "following" they have developed in the past at Greensboro College.

Campus Help

Student Workers and RA's

Work study is for students who could use a heavier cash flow. They work on campus and go to school. Work study is provided as part of financial aid awarded to students. They can work in the library, computer lab, Academic Advising department, Student Center, and cafeteria.

Resident Assistants in the dorms are seen by many students as the enforcers, people here to give them a hard time. R.A.'s do much more than that. They run programs on subjects important to students. They are the last to leave for breaks because they have to make sure that our rooms are safe and secure. R.A.'s have to know what to do in emergencies. They also have to set a good example for the rest of us and maintain order. R.A.'s are here to help and to be our friends.

Students expressed how they felt about family weekend:

— Deena Smith — "I really liked family weekend — I was glad my parents got to see the college."

— Kevin Williams — "It was really weird seeing everybody's parents all over the campus!"

— Tica Davis — "I was glad I got to see my family."

— Kelly O'Toole — "I just loved it! My parents took me shopping to spend lots of money. They also took me to my favorite restaurants (Casa Gallardo's and Kyoto's) so I could get some real food! All in all, I was spoiled rotten!"

— Tamera Fain — "Even though my parents live only thirty-five minutes away, I had a terrific day with my family, except for the fact that my brother and sister took over my room!"

"Ben Young, I said finish your drink!"

Visitors?

GC invaded by parents!

On the weekend of October 26th - 28th, the Greensboro College campus was flooded with parents. Some were eagerly awaited while others were not. The parents who arrived early got to tag along with the students and attend classes. Others, who came later with carloads of "necessities" and other goodies missed out on the "classroom action." Parents got to meet teachers and other faculty members, including President Likins and the Deans. Friday night included entertainment by the Stage Band and the Chorale. On Saturday, mini-sessions were offered by the professors on various issues facing today's society. The Parent's Association also held a luncheon in the cafeteria for the parents and their hard-working students.

Lessons And Carols

The yearly celebration of the Christmas Festival of Seven Lessons and Carols took place in the Hannah Brown Finch Memorial Chapel. This year was the twenty-fifth anniversary of the festival and was held at 8:15 p.m. on December 9, 1990. The celebration originated from the annual Christmas eve service in the majestic King's College Chapel, Cambridge, England. Dr. James Hull started the yearly tradition in 1966 when he came to Greensboro College.

The program consisted of seven scripture readings done by distinguished members of the college and community, along with twelve carols sung by the choral and congregation. This festival is structured to represent the bond between the Academic community and the city. It also represents peace within the Dr. Hull's Old Testament Students, French I Students and the Student Christian Fellowship members decorated the inside and outside surroundings of the chapel. Candles were lit by Mike Brame and carried out by the congregation into the darkness to the Nativity scene on front campus that was donated to us by Jefferson Pilot. There the brass ensemble closed the service with a few Christmas hymns. Following the program, a reception was held in the Welcome Center for the enjoyment of the College community.

Winter Rose . . .

A Night to Remember

It was a night to remember. Students arrived at the Depot dressed to the hilt! You would never have known that fabulously handsome guy in the slick black suit is the guy you see in class everyday in sweatpants and a t-shirt with his hair looking like it hadn't been combed for weeks. And what about the girls? They looked great!

Students came to the depot to dance the night away to music that was performed by the band Game. The students also came to socialize and to have an old-fashioned good time. The Winter Rose Dance is one of Greensboro College's standing traditions. It is the event of the year. Students tend to make a night of it. People who have boyfriends or girlfriends who live out of town, end up spending a little extra money so they can have their "loved one" at the dance. Couples or groups of students who unfortunately don't have a date, usually start the evening off by going to a nice restaurant that they normally can't afford. After they have eaten, they generally head over to the dance. After the dance, students may find themselves midnight bowling, hanging out at a friend's apartment, or just going back to the dorm. Talk after the dance is predominately gossip. People talk about whom they saw with whom or they talked about how everybody looked. Overall, most students had a great time!

One Last Chance . . .

Students Cram For Final Exams.

The end of the semester is here and it's time to recall all of the information we have learned. Late nights and a lot of reading and quizzing are involved in trying to bring back all the information from the beginning of the semester. During exam time the study halls are full of people flipping through notebooks and textbooks. Everybody is usually wearing their sweats in order to be comfortable. Cat naps are very common since many people spend their nights studying. No matter how hard a student may try, it seems they have to pull at least one hard night of studying. Some of us always end up slacking off in one or more of our classes, so we end spending our studying time trying to finish all of those undone assignments. By the end of exam week we are all ready to go home.

Casino Night

Gambling for a Good Time

This year's Casino Night took on a new sponsor. East Hall began without a clue of how to put together such a extravagant event, but CAB officers, Cindy Mock and Jeff Brown, and Sharon Cannon got them started. In a very short time East Hall put together a spectacular night of exciting casino games, refreshments, and a variety of prizes. G.C. students came dressed in their best and tried their luck at roulette, craps, blackjack, and poker. Balloons filled the room as students filled their pockets with the play money they hoped to use to buy a prize. At the end of the night, an auction was held where students got to bid on the prizes such as restaurant certificates, free car washes and Tia Kwon Do lessons.

Desert Storm '91

GC sticks together through the toughest of times.

On August 2, 1990, Iraqi troops invaded Kuwait — an event that would change the outlook Americans and Greensboro College students had on freedom and security. On January 15, 1991 — the Iraqi troops were told they had to pull out by midnight or the United States would take action. As America waited for Saddam Hussein's decision, Greensboro College students gathered in the chapel to hold a midnight vigil, sponsored by Second Floor High Numbers in East Hall. At the service, names of fellow students, family, and friends of GC students were named and prayed for. On January 16, 1991 at 4:50 pm the WAR began. The Greensboro College Community united under all the turmoil. Students put yellow ribbons, flags and anything else they could find patriotic on their doors. At the beginning of February, Saddam Hussein began showing signs of defeat and finally on February 28, 2 weeks after Hussein pulled out of Kuwait, a cease fire was called.

Because of the war, Kuwait suffered a great deal of ecological damage, America had its first woman Prisoner Of War and words such as SCUD Missiles, chemical weapons, and patriot missiles became a part of our vocabulary.

Spring Fling

Time to dance the night away!

What are Greensboro College students good at besides Math, English, Biology and other academic callings? Well, Greensboro College students are very well-rounded — They really know how to have a good time! The Spring Fling Dance is a great way for students to develop and show off their prowess in the social arts. Dancing, joking around, dressing up, and talking to friends are just a few of the skills needed to succeed at this Greensboro College Social Function.

While the Spring Fling is the last of the "Big Three" dances (Homecoming and Winter Rose included), it is certainly not the least important. When the birds are singing and the flowers are blossoming in the spring, everybody is ready for an evening of excitement. If the music is right, two young college students may be dancing their way toward summer love.

Nice Bates and Susan Black take a few minutes to sit down between dances.

Food and Fun

A Spring Fling Bonfire and Picnic

Yes, Spring Fling is more than just a dance. It is a weekend long celebration of Spring. This year the tradition was celebrated with a well-attended bonfire on the back campus. Also, there was a picnic lunch given by our ARA services. Unfortunately, the Battle of the Sexes competition was rained out. Sorry guys, I guess we'll just have to wait to discover the conclusion to the age-old struggle between the sexes. But Spring Fling is a sure way to celebrate the emerging Spring and the closing of another school year through the laughter of close friends.

GC Recycling

Making the World a Nicer Place to Live

With the rising concern over the environment, Greensboro College has taken a giant step in fighting for a cleaner and healthier environment — one that will be safe beyond our own years. Much like the programs set up in many of the United States' cities, Greensboro College has set up a comprehensive recycling system. Greensboro College is the only college in this area to have such a system in effect. With Greensboro College as a shining example, maybe more colleges and communities will take up this same healthy and clean habit in order to save our Planet Earth!

This system is entailed by many facets. There are barrels in every building on campus to collect newspaper, aluminum cans, and other types of paper products. Each barrel is marked with its appropriate title indicating which material it is supposed to collect. Volunteers made up of Greensboro College organization members, interested students, faculty, and staff take the recyclable materials to a special dumpster in the parking area behind the girls' dormitories. Then the materials are taken away to be recycled.

For such a small school, Greensboro College has done an outstanding job with such a huge task. But we must not forget those who have contributed so much time and energy to make it possible. This system works through the help of student volunteers as well as the leaders. Peter Begalla is one such leader who helped research the task, brought the idea to clubs, and who then helped to coordinate the volunteers. With the help of these volunteers and the recycling system, Greensboro College will help make Greensboro and the rest of the world a nicer place to live.

Above we see the elaborate barrel system used for the recycling program. Hey guys, it looks like you need to take some stuff out to the dumpsters!!!

Here We Go!

Moving Out of the Dorms

If final exams weren't enough, moving out gets people everytime. Students have to study for those important exams, but they would much rather pack their stuff. Students move out of the dorm back home or possibly to an apartment which is definitely a hectic event at GC. Where is the push truck? Why doesn't the elevator work? Watch out, the "fridge" is falling! Where is that RA to check me out? And to say the least . . . check out is truly the highlight of moving out. Remember to have all of your stuff out, your room clean, and be ready to ship out! For most students moving out is a wonderful, yet annoying experience. But we all know the bad often comes with the good. Moving out means — SUMMER, REAL FOOD, OLD FRIENDS, and NO CLASSES (at least until August).

The top 5 things people will miss from the dorms: 1. Your roommate, 2. Your friends, 3. Privacy from your little brother, 4. The security, and 5. Not having to cook your own meals.

Greensboro College Presents

"Little Shop of Horrors"

"Little Shop of Horrors", book and lyrics written by Howard Ashman, is an extremely funny play. Taking this into account along with the talent of the Greensboro College Players, the audience is given a real treat. Tina Jones, in Greensboro News and Record on March 20, 1991, says: "This 50's musical has become extremely popular with amateur companies because it is funny, has singable songs and is just gross enough to be a little naughty." She goes on to praise the Greensboro College Players in their fabulous performance. The audience left feeling that they received their money's worth!

Being a senior can be extremely frustrating at times. Not only are you expected to complete your required coursework, you have to make many decisions about what you are going to do with the rest of your life. Do you want to go the Graduate school, do you want to get a job, if so where? Often times you feel like you just want to give up. Well, this is where the people in Career Development can help. Debbie Stokes (pictured to the right) and Kellie McLeod are the life savors of many graduating seniors. They help write resumes, set up internships, and even help set up job interviews. They are also the ones who set up the wonderful babysitting list for the communitiy, so that many of us can have a little spending money.

The purpose of a yearbook is to capture our college experience in pictures. There is no way our book would be complete if we didn't mention Karen Marrow. I would say at least 75% of the student population has had to visit Karen at least once because they got caught doing something they weren't suppose to be doing. Karen, as most of us know, is the first person we see after we have been written up. If the student agrees with the report, she is the one who gives the points. Most people would think that Karen is one of the most unpopular people on campus. The truth, however, is quite opposite. Often times they find themselves stopping by Karen's office just to talk or say hello.

Class of '94

This year's officers were as follows: President, Tim Martin; Vice-President, Jim Ballard; and Secretary/Treasurer, Crystal Thompson. Even though the funding board forgot to allocate this class a budget, the freshman class was still able to put off an excellent haunted house and a terrific Halloween dance. In order to raise money for the dance, the officers decided to charge a dollar admission to the haunted house for people who went to GC. (the community had to pay more). People paid to go through the haunted house two or three times. Not only were the freshman officers able to build a successful house, they were able to get the rest of the freshman class to help. We would like to congratulate the freshman officers for a job well done.

Mail Call!

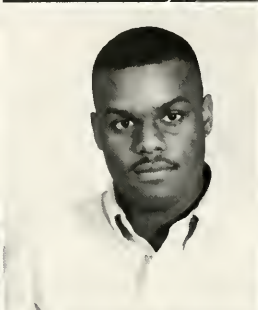

At least once a day students make a dash for the post office. They eagerly tear open their mail boxes hoping to have mail, whether it be from home or elsewhere. Squeals of delight are heard if the boxes contain letters from family or friends. However, the smiles fade when students discover their mail is merely an announcement of an upcoming event, or worse yet, a letter from Student Development! Who wants to hear from them?!!

Students are usually in the post office at lunch time and during the working hours of the postmaster. Also, like all other port offices across the nation, the GC post office is buzzing with activity during the holidays — especially Valentine's Day and Christmas!

Class of '93

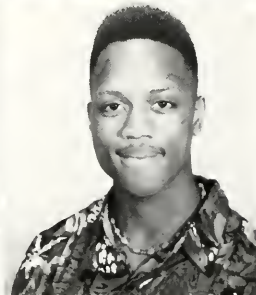

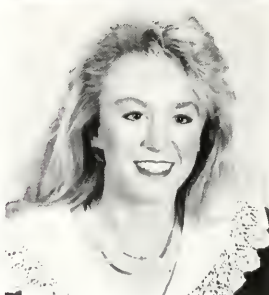

This past year the sophomore class officers were as follows: President, Elizabeth Voight; Vice-President, Chaz Polak, Secretary, Teresa Billmeyer (not pictured); and Treasurer, Wendy Knight. These four kept extremely busy this year. At the beginning of the year, they took the freshman class officers out to dinner. They also helped the junior class with Fall Fest and at Christmas they, along with Greensboro Hall Council, sponsored Operation Santa Clause for the homeless. At exam time, the sophomore class also sponsored a study break in the Stu.

Lunch Time

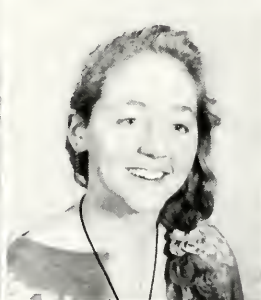

Who are these people? How many times have you walked through the cafeteria line and wondered who is serving you? Every meal these people give us a nice greeting and a smile. They ignore the many rude comments students have to say about the food, and put up with all the complaints. But do we really know who these people are? Well, some of the workers are students from the local high schools, while others are just people from the Greensboro community and its surrounding areas. These workers do quite a bit for the students without ever getting any thank yous. The yearbook staff would like to take the opportunity to say we do appreciate all the hard work you do for us!

Class Of '92

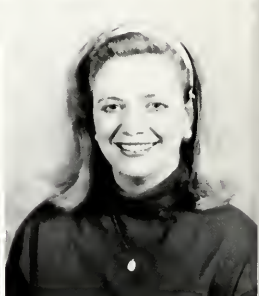

This year's Junior Class officers include: Vice-President, Krisse Newkirk; President, Amy Merritt; Secretary, Amiel Mateen; and Treasurer, Pam Brisbon. These four officers led the Class of '92 in sponsoring a variety of campus activities. Unfortunately, the Fall Fest scheduled for September 22 had low turn out due to bad weather. For Thanksgiving they sponsored a needy family. And to raise Christmas spirit, they sent Christmas cards to residents at a local nursing home. The Junior Class has also sponsored a couple of films, both of which were in the Stu. For Black History Month, they co-sponsored a speaker, and finally, for Easter, they sponsored an egg hunt along with SCF.

That's GC!

Here at Greensboro College many students have been so inspired that they have been motivated to express their individuality in various ways. Students choose to dress differently from everyone else, attempt to improve the cafeteria food by adding rodent delicacies, and some personalize their vehicles with license plates such as the one pictured to the left.

Class of 1991

This year the senior class sponsored many different events. They helped with the S.G.A. can food drive at Christmas, and they helped the junior class with Fall Fest. In January, they were the ones who helped decorate for the Winter Rose Dance. The senior class officers are also responsible for dressing the class dolls for the school's museum. (It is the tradition that each graduating class must dress a male and female doll in the style of clothes that are popular that year. The dolls are given during the Cap and Gown ceremony). The officers were as follows: President: David Costner, Vice-President: Lauren Collier, Secretary: Helen Morgan.

Cap and Gown

A Night To Remember

The history of Cap & Gown Day began in 1919, for the purpose of "publicly announcing the members of the senior class who had been declared eligible to wear caps and gowns." Traditionally, the president of the College, receiving the cap and gown from the sophomore class president, presented them to the senior class president while intoning, "I dub thee senior." All the seniors were then aided by their sophomore "little sisters" in the ritual of donning their robes for the first time. Today the seniors select their own "capper."

Commencement 1991

A Day to Cherish in Your Hearts Forever

Every year moms' await patiently on Mother's Day to watch their children parade across the GC platform to receive their college degrees. At 10:00 May 12th, the graduating seniors of 1991 finally received their diplomas after many years of hard work. The seniors had to wait patiently through many speeches and honorary degrees being honored to several individuals in the community. This year's 121 graduating seniors demanded to have their Commencement Ceremony held outside rain or shine! Luckily the rain held off. Kerri Satterfield was the class Senior Speaker in an address "And Now We Begin." Special recognitions were given to Dr. Isabelle Powell, Dr. Benjamin Wilson, and Professor Woodward. The commencement address entitled "The Future That Can Be" was given by Bishop L. Bevel Jones, III.

Research & Write!

Getting A Power Surge!

Many students have found that they must write several research papers a semester. As a result, they find themselves spending a great deal of time doing research in the library. In the past several years our library has gone through quite a bit of change. More current books and magazines have been ordered, and the library staff has reorganized the entire building. The library workers are also good at helping students find the information they need. Many students also find they need to escape to the library to study. Often times dorm rooms tend to be too distracting to get any homework done.

After the student has completed their research in the library, they may head over to Cowan to use the computer lab. This past year the computer lab has expanded greatly. Students can just use word processing programs in one room or they can go next door and work on the regular computers. Greensboro College students are lucky to have such luxuries as the computer lab.

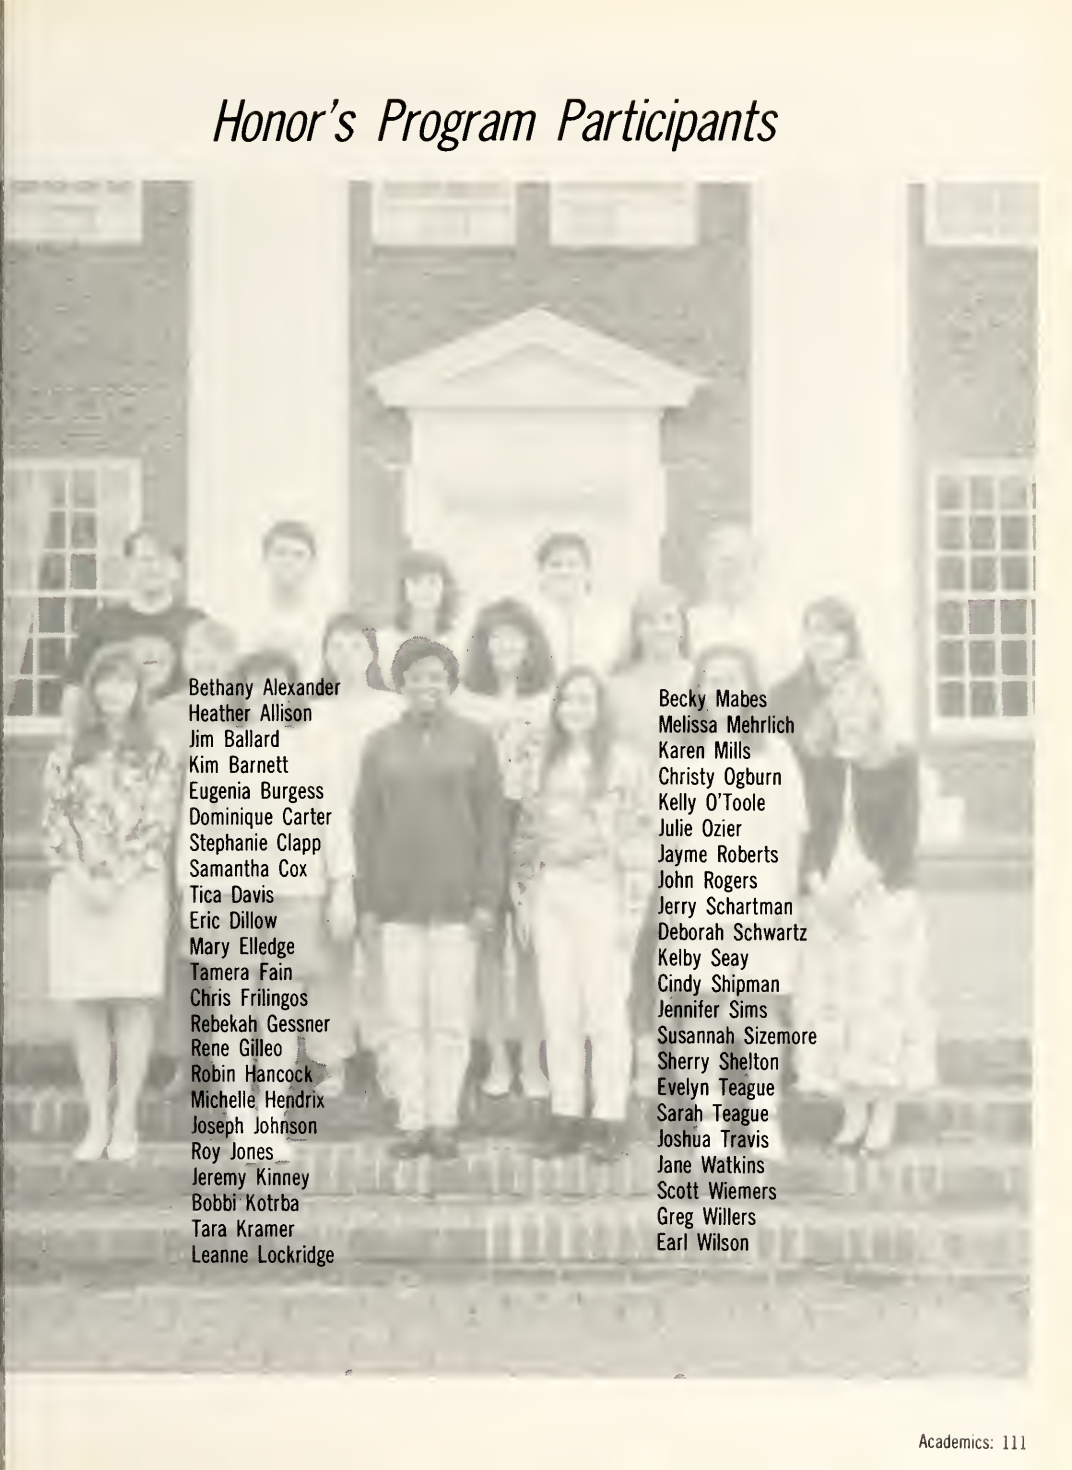

Roger Weeden and John Rogers cram for a test.

Junior Student Marshals

Junior Student Marshals are appointed by having the highest grade-point averages in the Junior Class. These Marshals help coordinate and carryout Cap and Gown and Commencement exercises to make sure every detail goes smoothly for the graduates. They arrive early on both days to make sure everything is in place. They further represent the school and its academic achievements by helping with both the Fall and Spring Convocations. This year's Junior Student Marshals were as follows: Chief; Shani Porter, Assistant Chief; Amy Merritt, Norma Byrley, Eric Dillow, Tamera Fain, Shelia Greeson, Dawn Holland, Janie Landreth, Victoria Lawton, Karen Mills, and Anna Reynolds.

Lab . . .

A New Experience!

The Science Department at Greensboro College is always full of students eager to learn. Experiments everywhere on every topic can be found in the science labs. Lynda Matthews works on her chemistry experiment to the left. Let's just hope she doesn't mix any of the wrong chemicals! Down below Michael Brame, Mark Costanzo, and Eric Krpejs explore the heart during their lab period. On the top of the next page, Craig Vaka listens intently to Dr. Mayes' lecture on cell division. Dr. Mayes and our other professors in the science department are all dedicated to teaching Greensboro College students everything there is to know about science. The science lab is something everyone should experience — especially since it is one of the requirements to graduate!

Elizabeth Balle and Sandra Gordon, student marshals, lead the faculty members into the chapel for the 1990 spring convocation.

Convocation

Fall and Spring Ceremonies

In September, an academic convocation was held in Finch Chapel honoring the student marshals and students who had made the 1990 spring semester Dean's List. The speaker for the evening was Robin Britt who spoke on "Servant Leadership." Following Mr. Britt's speech, the Greensboro College Choral led the audience in the singing of the school's anthem. Then in January another academic convocation was held honoring all students making the 1990 fall semester Dean's List. Mr. Dale J. Metz was the speaker of the night and spoke on "The Meaning of Life."

Each year these convocations are held to honor those students who are demonstrating academic achievement to the college community. All of the professors are present at the convocations and march in wearing caps and gowns in colors representing their field of study. The Dean of the College reads the list of names of the students who have maintained a grade point average of 3.4 or higher for the previous semester. Alpha Chi members are also recognized.

Faculty members applaud Dale Metz, the successful speaker, for his excellent speech at the fall convocation.

Students Abroad

Japan Foreign Exchange Program

Greensboro College has set up an exciting program with Nagasaki Wesleyan College in Isahaya, Japan. Greensboro College students apply to study abroad. The study usually takes place in the student's sophomore or junior year. While there the students take courses in various subjects about the Japanese culture. This past year, Stacy Malmin and Bethany Alexander were our two representatives in Japan. The two of them got to travel all over Asia and got to meet lots of interesting people. To earn a little extra money, they both got teaching jobs in the community. They both made great friends and miss Japan a lot.

Part of the program includes Nagasaki Wesleyan College sending some of their students here. This year Magumi Ide and Junko Noda came to our College. The two of them know a great deal of English and have taught their roommates and friends a great deal about their culture. The two of them have visited different parts of the country during the different breaks. While here, they have participated in the Greensboro College Chorale and taken different classes that reflect some of our culture. An example being American Literature. Magumi and Junko had to work extremely hard to keep up in these classes since all of their textbooks are written in English. Unlike when Stacy and Bethany were in Japan where lots of people can speak English, very few Americans can speak Japanese. So if they have any questions they have to figure it out themselves. It is a really nice experience for the students at G.C. to be able to have the opportunity to go to school with Junko and Magumi.

Big Things In

Organizations

Making Things Better!

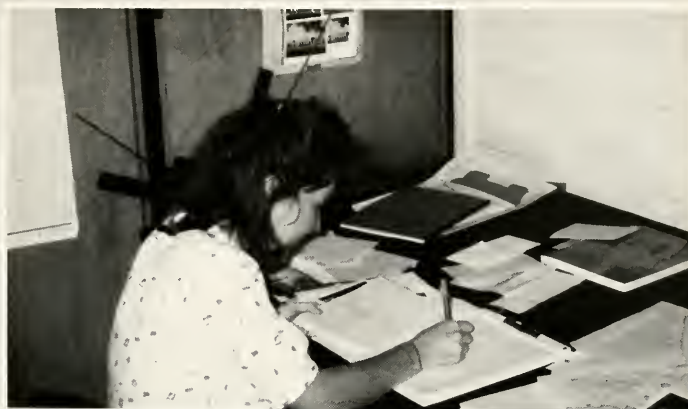

See, Big Things Do Come in Small Packages!

This year has been an extremely exciting year for the yearbook staff. The staff has been reorganized and more people have been involved than ever before. For the first time ever, the yearbook now has a computer to write and edit all the copy. This gave the staff more time to work on getting good pictures as well as doing nice layouts. We have tried to bear in mind all of the complaints from last year's yearbook and make this the best one yet! We hope y'all like what we have done. This year we had more photographers than ever before. They are not pictured because they are not required to attend the meeting. We would like to thank Roger Taylor, Bobbi Kotrba, Mike Crigler, Jane Watkins, Wendy Kazi and Tracy Taft for taking excellent pictures and capturing the memories of the 1990-1991 school year. We would also like to recognize Anna Reynolds and Nancy Harjo who are also on the staff but couldn't make it for the picture. Allison Hoyle in Student Development, our advisor, has also been crucial in helping with deadlines and having stress relievers at her house. This yearbook could not have been done without the hard work and long hours these individuals put in. Top right picture: Tara Thompson and Pam Brisbon looking through the 1989-1990 yearbook

This year the staff got a computer as part of their contract. It made the task of putting out a yearbook somewhat more complicated; yet, a whole lot easier. That means we all had some rough times dealing with that machine, but we're grateful for having it.

Excellence!

Honor Societies at Greensboro College

Excellence. When we think of this descriptive word, two academic organizations come to mind: Alpha Kappa Omega (AKO) and Alpha Chi. Alpha Kappa Omega is an honor society for women who excel in their community service and academic achievements. The purpose of Alpha Kappa Omega is to promote high ideals and set high standards for women who have already proven themselves as outstanding in leadership among their fellow students.

This year, during the month of March, AKO sponsored several events to honor women in history and today. On March 11, they held an art exhibit called "168 Remarkable Women" in the Irene Cullis Gallery. On March 12, Philip Rolnick spoke on the topic "Can God Be Understood As Feminine?" Then another speaker, Ann Walter-Fromson spoke on the psychological impact of infertility. Furthermore, AKO sponsored a reception for the women faculty at Greensboro College.

Alphi Chi is a national honor society open to seniors ranking in the top ten percent of their class and juniors who rank in the top five percent of their class.

This year's Alpha Chi Chapter sponsored "Rent-a-Chi" in which the members "rent" themselves to faculty to do odd-jobs for educational and/or personal purposes. This year's members helped faculty rake leaves and clean-up their homes. The money raised from "Rent-a-Chi" went to help send some of the members to the national convention where they present some of their scholarly or artistic work.

Also, each year at the fall and spring convocations, Alpha Chi gives certificates of honor to academically outstanding freshmen and sophomores. These awards are known as the Howard C. Wilkinson Awards.

CAB . . .

Always entertaining

The organization that deserves much of the credit for keeping us occupied and entertained on those sometimes dull days and evenings is the Campus Activities Board (CAB). They are the people who are responsible for finding and booking our wonderful comedians and musicians that have graced our campus for the simple reason of providing enjoyment to the students of Greensboro College. This year CAB has sponsored several activities such as two blood drives, study breakouts and Blizzard of Bucks. CAB has also helped organize and put on the acts involved in the performance series. CAB has been one of the most successful clubs on campus. Officers are as follows: President: Cindy Mock, Vice-President: Theresa Giamarino, Secretary: Jennifer Krauth, and Treasurer: Jeff Brown.

GGO

Volunteers

The Jaycees are probably best known for helping out at the Greater Greensboro Open (GGO). Every year the club helps sign up volunteers from the school to help pass out brochures, sell food, or whatever else needs to be done during the GGO. Of course G.C. students love to sign up to help because it is a chance to get into a national tournament for free. The Jaycees have also sponsored other events this year including an alnigher in the Stu and providing movies for students to watch. The Jaycees is a service organization that provides leadership training for students through campus activities and community service.

Pep Band and Stage Band

This year the pep band and stage band have been extremely active. The pep band has performed at many of the soccer games as well as some basketball games. They have been a key to boosting the crowd's spirits at the games. The pep band also performed at the bon fire the night before the homecoming game, played in the homecoming parade, and in the spring they played for the Spring Fling bon fire. The stage band, also directed by Jane McKinney, performed during parents weekend. In the spring semester the Stage band performed with the band from Saturday Night Live. The performance was known as "Tuesday Night Live."

G.E.T. H.I.P.

Helping Hands Of The Community

The hub of community service on this campus has been with the organization G.E.T. H.I.P. They started incorporating community service into our campus two years ago. 1990-1991 was a year to expand the popularity of community service. To kick off the year they began with bringing one of the N.C. senatorial candidates. Harvey Gantt spoke to a large group of people outside of Main building during the volunteer fair. Officers were as follows: Lisa Geyer, Chair; Candy Caudle, Co Chair; Tracy Taft, Treasurer; Jill Pearce, Secretary and Kelly O'Toole, Recruitment Officer.

Students Making Changes

UAAS and NCSL

The United Afro-American Society encourages an appreciation for the achievements of students of various ethnic backgrounds, and to unite the student body through various activities and events. This year's UAAS officers were as follows: Pres., Sharon Parker; Vice-Pres., Kelli Green; Sec., Melissa Ford; and Treas., Roger Taylor. UAAS held the Miss UAAS Pageant and the Mr. UAAS Pageant. They helped to entertain at Pre-Dawn and with the Stepshow held in Odell. They also celebrated United Nation's Day and Black History Month.

The North Carolina Student Legislature provides students with an in-depth, close-up, and practical education in the political and legislative processes. This year's NCSL was advised by Victor Archibong. Officers were as follows: Pres.; Monique Partee, Vice-Pres.; Stephanie Young, Sec.; Yvette McLean, Treas.; Sharon Parker and Parliamentarian; Andrea Smith. This year's NCSL held a Parliamentary Procedure Workshop, an Interdelegation debate, and worked with Dress America.

Greensboro College's Religious Life —

Supported, active, and always having fun!!!

Greensboro College is affiliated with The United Methodist Church; yet GC does not discriminate against other faith traditions. Greensboro College tries to unite Judaeo-Christian values into an ecumenically moral way of life on campus. Phillip Cates is the college's Chaplain. He supervises all Religious Life Activities, presides over the Religious Life Council, offers worship services, and provides spiritual care to the GC community. Worship Services are held every first and third Thursday of the month. The Religious Life Council is a collection of many active Religious Life Clubs: Student Christian Fellowship, Student Jewish Organization, Greasepaint and Halos, Doulos Fellowship, and Fellowship of Student Athletes. RIGHT: Phil Cates talks to Tica Davis after an ecumenical Chapel Service.

East Hall Council

East Hall Council has been very active this year in their projects for the campus and the community. Fall semester the council sponsored the first Battle of the Halls. This competition included activities such as the Barf-a-thon, Dizzy Izzy, Tug-of-war, volleyball, and others. East Hall dominated the entire competition and came out victorious. The picture to the right is at the sign-up before the competition. East Hall council also volunteered at Pathways Family Shelter both semesters. They took snacks and children's movies. Right before exams the council threw an ice cream social which was delicious. Second semester the council sponsored a gynecologist to come speak. The last big event that East Hall sponsored was Casino Night, which was a big success. The officers for this year were Tamera Fain — President, Amy Angelano — Vice-president, Tracy Taft — Secretary, and Rene Deibert — Treasurer.

Greensboro Hall Council

Greensboro Hall Council has been an active hall council this year. Although there were only three active members of the council, with the help of the Greensboro Hall Resident Director Ginny Strauss, they had an extremely successful year. Some of their activities included the study breakout that was held in the Greensboro lobby and the carpet sale that was held at the beginning of the year when all of the residents were moving in. They have also had speakers come in to visit the campus. Officers were as follow: President: Karen Timbrook, Vice-President: Lisa Handon, Secretary/Treasurer: Carrie Percell.

Student Government Association

The Student Government Association is a campus club that represents students' rights and helps the passing of laws. One big project of S.G.A. this year was their involvement in Project Hope. This is an outreach service project that involves joining with Student Christian Fellowship to include most of the College to perform outreach jobs for the homeless shelters in the Greensboro area. Several clubs participated on Monday March 18 by going to the Greensboro Urban Ministries and staying the night. Again on Tuesday, March 19, students visited The Pathways Center where they prepared a meal for the women and their children. And on Thursday, March 21 meals were prepared at the Red Shield Lodge, the Pathway Center, and the Urban Ministries. Each shelter expressed their gratitude to each club for their hospitality.

Another S.G.A. sponsored event was the mixer that was held with Guilford College in the fall semester. This was a big success and everyone had a great time. S.G.A. also sponsored Fall Fest and many other events. S.G.A. is a very active organization that has done an excellent job of representing the student body. Officers are as follows: President, Kerri Satterfield; Vice-President, Mike Crigler; and Secretary, Chris Monroe.

Obsession Dancers

Keeping in Step with GC!

The Obsession Dancers, once called the Steppers, love to put on a show for the Greensboro College Community. They spent many hours practicing in the study room on second floor of East Hall! If one were to walk into that study room while the Obsession Dancers were practicing, they would be well entertained. Each dancer had their own unique style and facial expressions. I believe that's what makes the group so fun to watch. Everyone seems to get along really well; someone is always laughing!

This year the Obsession Dancers entertained the Greensboro College students at Fall Fest. They also performed at the Pre-Dawn Dance the night before Homecoming. Furthermore, they not only sponsored, but performed in the Step Show.

Big Things in

Sports

Men's Soccer

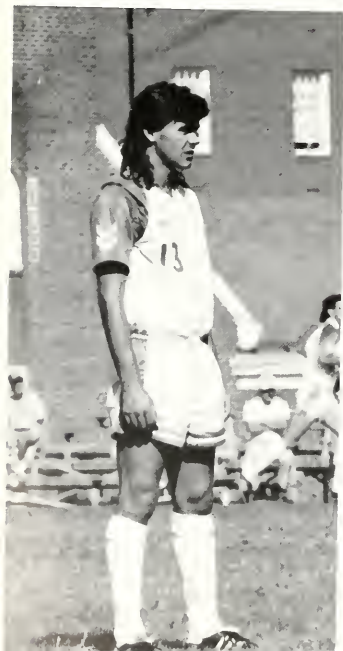

Go! Go! Go!

The 1990 soccer season for our GC Hornets was, in a word, "aggressive"! The players started off with games very early in the year. The team retained fifteen players from the previous season which meant GC had a rather mature team. While the team started off ranking third nationally among Division III colleges in pre-season, they fell to seventeenth after a loss to Haverford College. Coach Hamilton says that the key figures on the team were the seniors and the tri-captains.

The team's overall record was 12-6-1. Their conference record was 3-1-1. The conference leaders were Mike Grimsley with 9 goals, 16 assists, and 34 points, and Mark Lathrop with 14 goals, 5 assists and 33 points. The highlight of the men's schedule this season was the Healy Memorial Tournament which was held at GC on October 20-21.

"Where did everybody go?" asks Jim King.

Women's Soccer

On the Road to Success

In its first year, women's soccer has proven to be well on its way to success with a season of play by incredibly determined athletes. The team ended its season with an overall record of 4-6. It also had a conference record of 2-1. While these records may not be as high as some would like, they are proof that in their first season, the GC women's soccer team has great potential. Serving a Winning Season!

The Greensboro College Women's volleyball team finished a winning season with a 31-10 overall record. They were undefeated in the DIAC Conference with a 12-0 record. They also won the Dominoe's and Maryville Invitational Tournament. They were third in the Gallaudet and made it as one of the final eight teams of the Juniata finals. For the first time ever these lady hornets made it to the NCAA's Regional Tournament. More distinguished accomplishments include: being #1 in the South Region and #14 in the Nation. Laura Brown, as co-captain, made the first-team All Conference where she was voted MVP. She also made All-Tournament DIAC and All-Tournament South Region. Tina Leonard, also co-captain, made All-Conference DIAC and All DIAC Tournament. Tina was voted as MVP of the G.C. Dominoes. Shannon Virtue made All-Tournament at GC Dominoes and made it fourth in the Nation in Service Aces per game. Tammie Ingram made the second team All-Conference and was the third in the Nation in Service Aces per game. Congratulations to Coach Lojko who was voted as South Region "Coach of the Year."

Lacrosse

Beginning a New Tradition

This year marked the first year in Greensboro College's history that there existed a Men's Lacrosse team. The team was coached under John Burke. This team is unique to most other college teams, including Greensboro College's, because they were not a club before they started participating in conference competition. Even though the players tried hard and had lots of determination, their first season did not turn out as well as planned. The athletes did show great skill and technique in their sport, and since many of them are returning in the fall, prospects for the next season look promising.

Spirit!

GC Cheerleaders Get the spirit rolling!

Many people think cheerleading is an easy job. Boy, do they have it wrong! Cheerleaders are athletes just like soccer players or baseball players. It takes a lot of skill to perform stunts and jumps. How many of you can do a "russian" off of the top of someone's shoulders? And coordination? It takes lots of coordination to get ten people to do the same exact move at the same time. And our Cheerleaders know how to do it! Plus, how could a basketball game be a "real" game without cheerleaders there to cheer the team on even when they are losing? One basketball player said, "It's always nice to know their cheering for us!"

Above, Jennifer Hatcher and Beth Mitchell are synchronized and in step as they try to get the fans up off their feet at a home basketball game.

Hornet's Basketball

A Slammin' Season

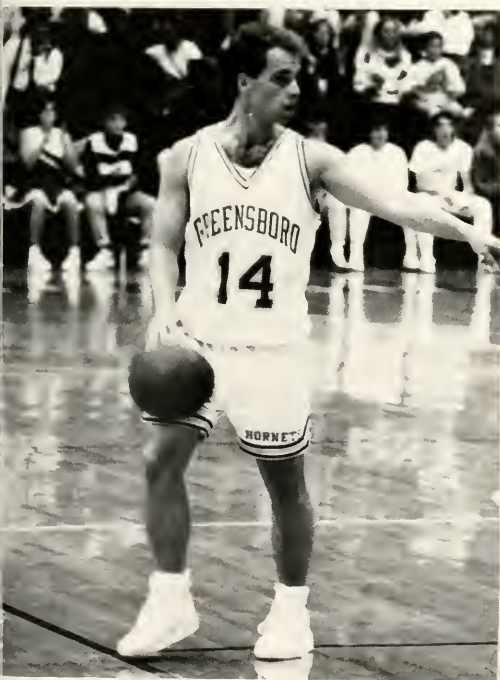

Our Men's Basketball team has had a good season. Their overall record was 10-16. Our team consisted of twelve freshman, two juniors and one senior. Coach Hanger was quoted as saying, "Overall, I would have to say I'm pleased with the team's effort. They worked hard from the very first day. But, we started the season with eleven freshman and that was a precursor to our sporadic play. Now we must build upon the foundation we've laid." They ended their season with a Dixie Conference Tournament quarter final loss to NC Wesleyan College. Forward Cory White was one of five players and the only freshman named to the first team All-Conference. A final good-bye to our senior point guard Jason Williams. Thanks for playing so well.

Women's Basketball

Dixie Conference Tournament Champions

The Greensboro College women's basketball team won the Dixie Intercollegiate Athletic Conference tournament. The Lady Hornets accomplished this goal with a decisive 87 to 62 point victory over the regular season champion, Christopher Newport College. Overall, the women's basketball team finished the season with a record of eighteen wins and nine losses. This record includes a conference status of ten wins and two losses. The team's coach, Sandy Sikes, has much to be proud of in the team.

The team saw two players leave as Amy Rogers and Jennifer Singer ended their collegiate careers. In other team news, two players were announced in All-Conference selections by the Dixie Conference. Center Tara Thompson and forward Stephanie Manus were both named First Team. In the championship game, Stephanie Manus and Kim Gosnell were named to the All-Tournament team. Tara Thompson was named Most Valuable Player. All in all, the Lady Hornets have what it takes to be victorious!

"Love" That Tennis!

Men's And Women's Tennis

This year the men's and women's tennis teams were led under the direction of Coach Alan Watts. Coach Watts does not really consider the two teams separate and treats each of them equally. Under his leadership the men's team placed fifth in the DIAC Tournament and the women's placed fourth. Kristen Brown was ranked third in the Conference finals. Coach Watts is now working on next season's schedule. Next season looks promising for both teams since most of the players will be returning.

Greensboro College Golf

The men's golf program has achieved recognition as one of the nation's very best since the middle of the 1970's. The home course for the team is at Bryan Park. This year the golf team ended their season ranked tenth in the nation. Jared Spencer won the tournament. Jared, as well as Todd Simpson, also made All-Conference. During the Athletic Awards Banquet, Jared was also named Most Valuable Player. John Rogers received the Newcomer award and Shawn Naples won the Coach's award.

The head golf coach, Steve Johnson, gives Shawn Naples an award at the banquet. Coach Johnson also (along with the women's basketball coach, Sandy Sikes) received the conference Coach of the Year Award.

From The Editors:

This year we have tried to make this yearbook the best one yet. We have done everything in our power to learn what we need to know about being editors of a yearbook, including going to a camp. We learned a lot and we are grateful that we went. We would like to thank everybody who has helped make this yearbook possible. We would especially like to thank the staff and our advisor, Allison Hoyle. We hope you enjoy the yearbook (and if you do, we encourage you to join next year's yearbook staff).

Orientation Leaders Express Themselves

Amy Merritt "chills out" between sessions.

The Greensboro College orientation leaders are selected through an interview process where enthusiasm, creativity, and interest in helping new students is emphasized. The 1991 orientation leaders participated in a training retreat at Camp New Hope in February where they planned the summer orientation schedule for freshman and transfers.

Eleven of the orientation leaders were able to attend the Southeast Regional Orientation Workshop in Raleigh, April 12-14. The orientation leaders participated in both gong and skit competitions at the conference. Sandy Fields impersonated Madonna in the song competition while the leaders danced and sang this year's theme song "Express Yourself at Greensboro College." In the skit competition, the leaders sang their versions of top orientation hits in a spoof of a TV commercial. Their skit was interrupted by Cindy Mock who played the orientation "Energizer Bunny." The skit was well chosen because orientation leaders "keep going and going and going . . ." The best part of the conference was learning new ideas for orienting students in 1991-1992 including a new program called the "African-American Celebration" which will be in September of 1991.

Our Orientation Leaders showing off their stuff at SROW Conference.

Who is this Madonna look-a-like? Sandy Fields! You've got to be kidding.

Picking the Best of Clubs

The First Annual Interclub Council Awards Banquet

The Interclub Council is in position to create unity between the various campus organizations in matters of planning and coordinating campus activities. This was the first year the Interclub Council has held an awards banquet to recognize the outstanding clubs at Greensboro College. This year's awards were as follows: "Perfect Attendance": GET HIP, Junior Class, S.G.A., UAAS, West Hall Council, CAB, and Student Ambassadors; "Good Attendance": AKO, International Club, Math Club and Psychology; "Best Educational Program": Psychology Club for Mental Health Awareness Month events; "Best Social Function": Freshman class for the Haunted House; "Best Community Service Project": GET HIP for the Volunteer Fair; "Best Interclub Council Representative": Kerri Satterfield and "Outstanding Club Award": Campus Activities Board.

Sharon Parker and Roger Taylor stop eating in order to catch up on some news.

Kerri Satterfield and Sharon Cannon seem pleased with the awards.

Sandra Gordon makes Cindy Mock extremely excited by giving C.A.B. an award of excellence.

We Bid a Fond Farewell

Three Retirees from Greensboro College

The Greensboro College Community is sorry to lose three faculty/staff members to retirement after the 1990-1991 school year. There was a reception held on April 26, 1991 to honor these three dedicated persons.

Dr. Isabelle Powell has been a professor of sociology here at Greensboro College for nineteen years. While no one wants to see her go (especially the sociology majors), everyone is glad that Dr. Powell will be able to do sociological research that she formerly has not had time to do.

Dr. Russ McCabe is better known by most members of the GC community as "that smart maintenance guy". It is true. Russ McCabe received his Ph.D in philosophy and he used to teach at EPI. He began working at GC nine years ago. Russ, you will truly be missed.

Dr. Ben Wilson has been a professor of english at Greensboro College for thirty years. Dr. Wilson is an exceptional man who listens and helps his students in and out of class. Dr. Wilson taught many English classes with a very creative style that helped people learn without being bored.

Ben Wilson mingles with students, faculty, and staff at the reception held in honor of the retirees.

Ben Wilson almost tearfully addresses the student body a final time at the graduation ceremony.

Thomas Hardy Study Tour 1990

A Last Look at Greensboro College Students

Who Are They? What Are They Really Like?

While walking across Greensboro College's campus you can meet many interesting people. You can see sports team players showing off their skills. Sometimes you can even see people hurrying over to the computer lab to finish up an important paper. On Fridays you can see people leaving campus for their hometown. There is a kind of rhythm to our campus; yet, there is a real chance to become someone special, to stick out in a crowd. We are lucky here, in that, we know almost everyone on campus, at least by sight. Our individual talents and personalities are able to show through with acceptance and encouragement. Greensboro College is definitely a place of diversity in its student body.

Right: Everybody in the Stu should be so happy. Here we have Oladapo Frederick displaying his smile and his courteous phone manners.

Here we have Mark Costanzo and Tricia Derring doing some of their RA duties.

The True Nature of Greensboro College

A Final Goodbye . . . A Closing to the 1990-1991 Year

GC is more than just buildings or ideas . . . it is new beginnings. Furthermore, GC is people. It's the students, faculty, and staff. We are all part of GC and it is our responsibility to make sure it stays that way. It has been a great year, and GC just keeps getting better! As you can see, BIG THINGS DO COME IN SMALL PACKAGES!
